

Access to Opportunity in Southeast Asia

Jakarta, Indonesia, Shangri-La Hotel
May 3-5, 2011

An international investment conference organized by the Overseas Private Investment Corporation

Overseas Private Investment Corporation (OPIC), the primary U.S. government agency responsible for supporting American private sector investment in developing countries, will host Access to Opportunity in Southeast Asia, an international investment conference designed to identify investment opportunities in the region's new and emerging markets, encourage joint ventures between U.S. and regional businesses, and facilitate support for new investment in Southeast Asia.

OPIC's investment conferences provide participants with a unique opportunity to personally meet with a mix of entrepreneurs, financiers and decision-makers who can best enable them to take advantage of the potential in new markets. Attendees will hear presentations by leading investment experts, U.S. businesses currently investing in Southeast Asia, financial institutions operating in the region, and U.S. government officials.

Conference sessions will focus on access to project finance and trade credit, private equity, infrastructure, tourism and entrepreneurship. Particular emphasis will be placed on the renewable energy and clean technology sectors.

Who Should Attend:

- U.S. Business: Businesses of all sizes seeking private equity, debt financing or partners for expansion into Southeast Asia
- Financial Institutions: U.S. or Southeast Asian capital providers offering investment and trade finance to Southeast Asian businesses or U.S. businesses looking to expand into Southeast Asia
- Southeast Asian Business: Southeast Asian companies looking for U.S. partners or capital
